

Date and time counting into 2009 - emailed to subscribers
Tue, 06 Nov 2007

This email is confidential, and may not, under any circumstances, be forwarded on. In this instance, this would be a dis-service both to you and to me to do so. This particular info should not really be in the public sphere.

Note this year's February 26 high, same high price on 27th as well. Illustration attached.

All ords fcast nov 07
All ords fcast nov 07 - Monthly

In the Melbourne May classes, we saw this to be 7 degrees and 8 degrees into Pisces. I highlighted that this would be an important date to count from, in addition to the usual three other dates most months. If you traded through this period, you will remember the savage sell off that took place immediately after this date.

For recent subscribers who may have no idea what we are doing with all this, then go here:
<http://www.businesscycles.biz/subscriber/monthlytrend.htm>

and here for a bit of later background:
<http://www.businesscycles.biz/2007emails/whatfuss.htm>

Observe that this month's November high is exactly 240 degrees later. This puts it on the triangle within the circle. Again, if you are new to this, go here:
<http://www.businesscycles.biz/subscriber/birthdates.htm>

In an earlier email, I said this:
 The further (and final) calculation we do in the Gann classes... all the numbers are shaping up for 2009.

The full text is here:
<http://www.businesscycles.biz/2007emails/afu.htm>

The significance ? It's in the counts. The above counts were in days, for the remainder of 2007. Try it in months. Plus 30 months from late Feb 2007 runs us into late August 2009, very early September 2009. Interesting isn't it, in light of the above earlier email. Stock markets will see major emotion at this time. We will of course, in late 2008, update what is happening through referral to Gann's decade cycle, and year counts, looking back perhaps 5 years to 2004, (60 months), 7 years to 2002 (360 weeks), 10 years to 1999 (120 months), 15 years to 1994 (180 months), 20 years to 1989, (240 months) and so on. See the monthly chart attached: all down years except 2004. all ords monthly nov 07.png

New to this, go here:
<http://www.businesscycles.biz/chartsbusiness/dow1.htm>

Generally, the decade cycle has often seen highs in year 9 in August / September, then a bear market into year zero and one, being recessions. The market is now beginning to tell us what it is going to do in 2009. At this early stage, a low early March would not surprise, then a 180 day run into early September. And we know already that gold will be emotional around the week of October 23, followed by oil at xmas '09. <http://www.businesscycles.biz/subscriber/oil.htm>

Closer to the days involved, we will know the direction in which to trade. Time will turn the trend.

The 'team' at work

 Print Friendly Page

Home ----- Contact Us