Do note all the dates mentioned. (1889 to 2009 is 120, which I have pointed out to you before. This is highly significant and anything but coincidental)

I just love the synchronicity: the building did I believe become the "tallest" structure on July 21, same time as the stock markets peaked for this year. I still think that the finish of this building is highly likely to mark the peak - and passing - of this cycle's world real estate bubble, see
